RESOURCING GRASSROOTS CLIMATE SOLUTIONS

INDIGENOUS PEOPLES, WOMEN, PEASANTS, AND YOUTH HAVE THE SOLUTIONS TO OUR CLIMATE CRISIS.

Climate change is ravaging people and planet. Yet in response, philanthropy has primarily invested in top-down, market-based mechanisms that have not yielded the expected results. There are growing movements of grassroots actors trumpeting immediate, ambitious, and just solutions across the globe. From indigenous women fighting for food sovereignty in rural Guatemala to youth in Nepal amplifying renewables, grassroots groups are demonstrating the power of communities to curb fossil fuel emissions and create the new economic models of the future that are not reliant on unresponsive politicians, corporations or big NGOs.

CLIMATE LEADERS IN MOVEMENT ACTION (CLIMA) FUND

The CLIMA Fund aims to dramatically increase funding for indigenous, peasant, women, and youth-led grassroots movements building climate resilience and confronting roots causes. The Fund is a unique collaboration between four public foundations: Global Greengrants Fund, Grassroots International, Thousand Currents, and Urgent Action Fund for Women's Human Rights. With a global reach and over 100 years of collective experience in international grassroots grant-making, the Fund offers a way for large foundations to efficiently and effectively reach grassroots work globally. We use complementary models to holistically support climate movement-building, from rapid response for environmental defenders to long-term partnership and support to social movements.
